	One.
1 Building a body for 1 1/2 ton "Commer" Chassis.	...

Specification.—

The cabin provides for two independent seats on either side of the engine including the Driver's seat. One long seat is provided at the rear of these two seats to accommodate four persons. This would be useful for conveying men during emergencies.

The body and cab shall be of strong construction either of steel sheeting or of good seasoned wood and the design shall be similar to ones now in use in this Department.

Platform ... 8' x 6'

The cab shall be well made and suitably strengthened, half-doors being provided on both sides with good quality canvas side-curtains above them. The back of the cab shall be fully planked and provided with a peep window with a slide shutter. The Driver's seat and back shall have comfortable cushions covered with leather or good quality raxine.

The truck shall consist of a high loading platform with fixed front and hinged side and tail boards 30" high. The floor planks shall be not less than 1 1/2" thick and properly secured to the cross members which should in turn be secured to the longitudinal members of 3" x 4" size mounted on the two-channel iron chassis frames and secured thereto by U-bolts. The side and tail boards shall be suitably hinged to drop down and be removed when necessary. Hooks shall be provided at both ends of each cross member so as to enable securing goods by rope and tarpaulins fully covering the truck body. The width of the cab shall be constructed to enable the loading of poles on either side. The design for this can be obtained by inspection of the lorry in use at Central Stores, Bangalore. The platform shall be protected with M. S. Sheets 1/16" thickness.

The rear wheels shall be provided with mud guards of sufficient width and strength, secured by brackets to the chassis and platform.

The tool box shall also be provided continuous with right side foot board of large capacity and secured to the frame by strong clamps and brackets.

This lorry shall be painted with green paint of good quality in two coats and lettering "Government of Mysore—Electrical Department" at a prominent place in front, painted in black against white ground.
